GENERAL NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Gen. Porter and his Case.

West Point July 12—At Fitz John Porter's former trial one of the charges depended for support on the proposition that Gen Pope's dispatch of the fourth day in the afternoon, ordering Porter to attack the enemy was received by 5 o'clock Porter answered that it arrived between 6 and 7 which was too late to admit of execution John B Leo Inman an old resident of the neighborhood who was Gen. Lee's guide at the time and knows the ground thoroughly now testifies that if Pope's messenger rode at utmost speed over the route described by himself it was a physical impossibility to reach Porter until after 6 Gen Warren, being recalled emphatically denounced the map relied upon at the original trial as grossly inaccurate He disputes the theory of the prosecution that Porter knew a general fight was going on during the day without offering to participate, and showed that the elevation of country between Porter and Pope's positions was so great that Porter could have seen no sign of the battle if there had been one Gen Chauncey McKeever, of Heintzleman's corps confirmed Porter's statements as to the bad condition of the roads, which rendered the movement of Porter's troops impossible at once on the morning of the 30th He also confirmed the testimony of several witnesses, denying that there was a heavy battle on the 29th as reported by Pope, when he charged that Porter failed to come to his aid.

General Schofield, president of the board questioned the witness closely on this point, and he replied in substance that there was more or less fighting all the afternoon of that day, most of it occurring after the attack on Siegel in the morning. Altogether there were four engagements, not simultaneously but about an hour apart, and not over 3 000 in each. There was very little firing after 5 P M, and in the evening none at all Pope's dispatch of the 30th August to Halleck had said "We fought a terrific battle here yesterday, with the combined forces of the enemy, which lasted with continuous fury from daylight until after dark, by which time the enemy was driven from the field" McKeever detailed what he termed the desultory attacks said ... sent one brigade into the woods and it was repulsed, Then there was an attack just before or just after to the left of Gen ...'s position. Gen Kearney made one attack with not more than 3 000 men When Schofield asked the witness if the fire was like heavy musketry by line and continuous he replied "It was so only in one attack, that of Grover's, where there was a full line of the infantry line, and Grover lost over ... of his command"

Col. Chas. Marshall, one of Lee's aides, testified that twelve rebel brigades marched through Thoroughfare gap on the 28th of August and one next morning, thus confirming Porter's statement that the main body of the rebel army was in his front, when Pope supposed only its flank was there attacked ... described how different portions of the rebel force were harassed, attacked or menaced by Porter, and thus held in check and prevented from concentration, against Pope. This witness explained Lee's original plan of the second Bull Run battle and stated that Lee did not make an attack on ... because Longstreet advised against it. He denied positively Pope's official statement that there was a general battle on the 29th. There was some artillery firing and ... and a severe fight, but it did not become general.

Give Ohio a Show.

Washington, July 12—The president has appointed Alexander Reed of Ohio, receiver of public moneys at Walla Walla, W T

The Price was Pretty High.

New York, July 7—The Times' Cincinnati special says: Proof can be had that Weber's testimony in Washington in support of Anderson was bought by a purse of $7 000 a deposit being made in the hands of a certain well known broker in New Orleans He went to Washington ready to accept a higher bid from Sherman, but failed to get it

THE POTTER INVESTIGATION.

Washington July 12.

The Potter investigation committee resumed its session to day and examination of Senator Kellogg was continued by Butler The senator testified that in his opinion, if President Hayes had recognized Gov. Packard by telegraph immediately after the former's inauguration and followed the same by official recognition as President Grant had done in his (Kellogg's) case, the people of Louisiana, including the Nicholls faction would have made no trouble. He considered Packard elected the same as the Hayes electors so far as Louisiana was concerned. General Grant had telegraphed to ... a day or so before he went out of office that he had hesitated recognizing Governor ... the consequence of there having been a commission appointed to investigate the result of the Louisiana election Referring to the Macveigh commission, witness heard last fall that the Sherman letter had been found among D A. Weber's papers and that Mrs. Jenks had procured possession of it through her intimacy with the Weber family. Mrs. Jenks had called upon him in New York and spoken of the Sherman letter While ... the contents of the document Mrs Jenks was on a sofa and pretended to be reading the substance of the letter from a paper she held in her hand. Being very busy and not caring ... connected with the affair he advised Mrs Jenks to call upon Mr Packard, which he believed she did, but he was unable to state what occurred, further than that Packard had said he did not attach any importance to her conversation. Want to put your ... in a halter? You go ahead and do it. I am ... of this state. I control the courts. A ... with is sufficient. He never attempted to induce Anderson to make a fraudulent protest. Did not remember of having conversed with ... regarding the protest. After the election Kellogg remarked that Anderson was not a man with whom he would hold such conversations as he had ... had occurred between them

Questioned by Hiscock, witness testified that in his opinion the statement made by Jas E Anderson to the effect that he (Anderson) had been associated with nothing more or less than a conspiracy, ... he had requested Anderson to return to his ... and had given him money to go back but ... remained in New Orleans and spent the money ... employed L B Jenks to watch him as ... Witness pronounced as entirely ... and without foundation Anderson's testimony to the effect that if Kellogg ... Nash for the sixth congression ... he and Weber would burst the election ... believed that violence and intimidation ... in the parishes of East and West Feliciana, East Baton Rouge Ouachita and Moore ... He thought the result of intimidation and ... was to destroy the Republican majority ... especially in the parishes he mentioned judging from the fact of their having always gone Republican previous to 1876 Mr Sherman was present at the open meetings of the returning board only. Am not aware that he participated in any of the proceedings of the board to a greater extent than other visitors

Q—While Mr Sherman was in New Orleans do you know of his doing or saying anything either to any of the supervisors with reference to protest or to any member of the returning board as to his action?

A—No sir, I do not. I have seen him in my ... when the returning board officers were there ... never saw him in consultation with them

Q—I will now ask you this general question Do you know of any case where there was false, forged or fictitious protest, or any other unfair election paper, that was used before the returning board of 1876?

A—I do not.

Q—Is there any letter which was written by you ... the canvass or of the returning board which you do not wish made public?

A—No sir, on the contrary if any one has any letters written by me, bearing on the election ... hope they will not delay in publishing the same ... the better

Washington dispatches say that the Potter committee, with the exception of Ben Butler, are tired of the investigation Nothing but Butler's ambition keeps him up He wants to get even with Mrs Jenks

The Commotion in Montreal

Montreal July 12—Since 8 o'clock the city has been in commotion with crowds of people on the principal streets and military marching to rendezvous on Champs de Mars The first blow struck in the impending conflict was by one of the mayor's special constables who deliberately assaulted with his baton a band man of the Prince of Wales Rifles named William Sharp at the corner of Jacques Cartier square and Notre Dame street without any provocation as the regiment was proceeding to the point of rendezvous The special escaped arrest At 9 o'clock the whole military force consisting of artillery and a troop of cavalry were drawn up on Champs de Mars, under Col Fletcher waiting arrival of General Smythe The troops looked well and the officers in command expressed fullest confidence in the men doing their duty loyally and well Police are collected at the city hall where special constables are assembled with a white ribbon as badges and clubs in hand They are a despicable looking lot and the police sergeant says a majority are jail birds The utmost fear prevails that they are a dangerous gang who will commit excesses if they get a chance The police are in charge of the mayor and special constables under Deputy Chief Neagle

The Orangemen are determined to walk and are now mustering at Orange hall, St James street decorated with their party emblems The procession will not be large but their sympathizers in the streets are many If a conflict occurs it is expected it will be between Orange hall and Victoria square where the dangerous element is collecting in masses The chief of police with sixty men searched the passengers in the steamer from Quebec for arms, but found none Some 400 or 500 were on board A man named Brennon from Three rivers arrived at the railway depot with a loaded 7 shooter on his person He was locked up It is reported a store of arms, concealed in a house in Craig street where an Irish Catholic club meets, has been discovered

At 9 30 A M the military marched from Champs de Mars to various points where they will be stationed during the day Some excitement was created by an alarm of fire but it turned out to be only a chimney

The Orangemen are massing around their hall, and it looks as if the procession would be larger than anticipated A detachment of police are stationed around the entrance of the hall

10 A M—The arms alluded to in a previous dispatch were found in Union hall Craig street There were fifty stand Police and special constables, the former under Chief Neagle and the latter under Sergeant Parodis, are massed between Place d Arms and St Lambert's hall on St James street, which is kept clear At either end are massed dense crowds of the Catholic party chiefly St Jean Baptiste and outside village laborers They are dreadfully excited and every man with an Orange emblem on his way to the hall is pursued The mayor has had an interview with Orangemen and tried to persuade them not to walk but they would not listen to his counsel The procession will start about 10 30 A young man wearing the Orange lily was attacked by two special constables and struck across the head This attack was applauded by the whole body of constables The fifty third regiment under Col Ibbeson and directed by Magistrate Smythe, is stationed in Place d Arms a square close to Orange hall

The Orangemen Bullied out of It.

Montreal July 12—11 30 A M—The Orangemen have just decided not to walk and the police will escort them to their homes An attack was made on an Orangeman on Craig street but he was quickly rescued, and did not sustain much injury

A Sort of Compromise.

2 30 P M—Orangemen gave up their procession in the face of receiving protection from the authorities They stipulated with the mayor that he should disperse the mob in the vicinity of the hall and place a guard in the hall to night to protect it

The Mob at Montreal

New York July 12—Dispatches from Montreal state that when the Orangemen came out of the hall they tried to form a procession but experienced great difficulty They were surrounded by an immense mob The military fixed bayonets, formed across the street and divided the mob The mayor's constables then dashed among the Orangemen and arrested several whereupon the Orangemen returned to their hall Shortly after the mayor entered and asked if they proposed to submit to the properly constituted authorities, and was answered "Yes" He then forbade the procession as illegal and ordered the arrest of the grand master and several others The Orangemen decided to adjourn till to morrow when assistance is expected from Ontario

"Freedom" in Canada.

Montreal June 12—As an Orangeman was proceeding home in a cab from Orange hall he was attacked by an infuriated mob and beaten almost to death, His eyes were nearly gouged out and he lies in a precarious condition

The Orangemen Suppressed

Montreal July 12—D Grant county master, and John Hamilton county secretary of the Orange Association were arrested They went quietly to the police station The other Orangemen who entered the lodge remain there for Grant's return, when a consultation will be held The mayor will arrest every man as he comes out of the lodge unless he expresses his intention of returning home Mayor Beaudry has occupied a seat all the morning on St James street directly opposite Orange Hall where he conveniently directs movements of the constabulary He appears to be satisfied and pleased that his plans are being so successfully worked out and is resolved to continue to proceed as heretofore with regard to Orangemen who have been arrested he stated the object was to make their trial a test case to settle once for all the question of legality of the Orange association and procession He expressed a hope that ... [illegible] ... Wives and friends of Orangemen ... the city are in a high state of anxiety about their safety The following telegram was sent by County Grand Master Grant to the premier and the reply is being awaited

To the Hon Alex Mackenzie Ottawa We are surrounded by ... thousand ruffians The mayor will not clear the streets Military of no use Reply at once D GRANT

The Parade at Toronto

Toronto July 12—At noon the Orange lodges began to assemble and a ... procession was formed and the lodges marched to St James cathedral where the customary services were held The turnout owing to the muddy condition of the streets was not as large as usual but still there was a very good muster Every lodge was well represented All banners were in line with half a dozen bands of music Last evening some sixty Orangemen arrived from [illegible] to proceed to Montreal but ... remained here and celebrated the day here

Testimony under Difficulties.

San Buenaventura July 12—The slow process of bitering a rigid cross examination first through Spanish and then through a miserable Chinese interpreter has been going on in the More murder case all afternoon As the Spaniard and Chinamen do not pretend to know anything of the personnel of the murderers but only the facts their testimony seems to be closely sifted on the part of the defense apparently for the purpose of contradicting Jones state's evidence who has sworn and will swear both to the facts and the men No discrepancy was made out except such as might be expected where witness has testified three or four times from memory

The trial promises to last a week at least Detectives are not here and so far the evidence is a repetition of details of the killing

Movements of Troops The Action taken by Gen Howard and Gov Chadwick Indians Cross the Meacham Road—Cayuse Station Burned The Troops in Hot Pursuit—Destitution among the People

[BY TELEGRAPH

Umatilla July 12, 1878

... Umatilla ... learns as follows: He left Umatilla Wednesday evening and arrived at Pendleton at two o'clock Thursday morning Gov Ferry was waiting having arrived at ... before ... Dr ... and Mr Smith of the Walla Walla ... started for Gen Howard's headquarters by way of the Indian agency They reached the agency at five A M and found much alarm about the Snakes Indian scouts belonging to the agency the day before had discovered Snakes at the head of McKay creek and had learned that the hostiles were to attack the agency during the night or in the morning Every man was on duty at the agency all night

We learn from Agent Cornoyer that all his Indians were on the reservation except Yellow Hawk who was at Fort Hall Yellow Hawk was with Egan for sometime and is afraid to return Letters were shown stating these facts Cornoyer joined this party and all made their way to Gen Howard's camp arriving at 7 A M Capt McGregory informed the party that at midnight he received like word that the Snakes would make an attack on the agency during the night or following morning He held his men under arms all night in order to give the hostiles a warm reception Gen Howard and Lieut Wood left camp the night before to tap the telegraph wire and were not to be seen Col Mason Capt McGregory and Col Bernard were here This post was on a spur of the Blue mountains near the main road that leads to the Meacham route and the station near by is known as Cayuse station

Gen Howard learning at Weston that the two governors were at his headquarters had a courier sent for them The parties arrived at Weston about 5 in the afternoon and had an interview with Gen Howard He has moved his line of operation, with temporary headquarters at Wallula and ordered his men to report accordingly Sanford presses on to Wallowa Bernard goes to Lewiston Egan moves through Powder river valley Miles Bendire and Rodney will press the hostiles Major Throckmorton is now at Ayer's ranch Butter creek Chadwick requested that he should be stationed at or near the Indian agency which request he thinks will be granted Major Sanford has Col Grover's command There are said to be volunteers at La Grande to co operate It was generally supposed that the hostiles were moving east Gen Howard is determined to arrest their march No doubt the Indians intended at first to cross the Columbia above or below Umatilla All of Gen Howard's plans are based on his conviction now that the Indians have changed their course and will go to Salmon river If so the war will assume much the character of Joseph's campaign

Gov Ferry and Gen Howard left Weston for Walla Walla and Gov Chadwick returned to Pendleton On his return to Pendleton he saw the mountains on fire on the Meacham road and learned what had transpired During the afternoon the governor sent a party with guns to La Grande on the stage At 3 o'clock in the morning he reached Pendleton The stage passed Howard's headquarters about 5 A M under guard, and crossed the mountains in safety But the stage that came over the mountains in the afternoon was fired into by three hostiles and was followed for a mile and a half The Indians were on foot. The driver, by using the lash escaped This was on the road six miles from Cayuse station The hostile camp of Snakes and Bannacks yesterday afternoon was at the forks of McKay creek, Blue mountains They broke camp and moved east, crossing the Meacham road north of Emigrant Springs where they killed six beef cattle and moved on Their route from this point is uncertain They can go to Warm Springs where a few camped the night before (a fact known to Gen Howard) and pass up the road on the south fork of Umatilla river to the summit of the mountains take the Linton road to Indian valley and Wallowa, and thence to the mouth of Salmon river Or they can go to Warm Springs, leaving Weston to the right, and go to the Columbia river where their stock has crossed It now remains to be seen where they have gone

Gen Howard's judgment in this matter is determined by his acts, and he is usually correct If he is correct in this case he will catch the hostiles on Snake river Last night Captains Miller Bendire and Rodney were at McLellan's ranch on the Daily road, twenty miles west of the hostile Indian camp on McKay creek This command composed of cavalry infantry and artillery three hundred strong will give hot pursuit to the hostiles and drive them into Gen Howard's trap These were the first Indian tracks crossing the Daily road yesterday This Daily road starts in at Pilot rock and runs over the Blue mountains south of the Meacham road and almost parallel with it

This morning at 2 o'clock at Pendleton news came that the hostile Indians had made their appearance at Cayuse station, Gen Howard's headquarters in the morning This is 14 miles from Pendleton There may have been hostile Indian scouts out, the same that fired into the stage The Umatillas were busy early yesterday morning and all day collecting their stock to prevent these hostiles from driving it off This stock ranges near Cayuse station

Gov Chadwick learns this evening that Cayuse station was burnt last night It seems that Govs Ferry and Chadwick were only one day ahead of the event foreshadowed by the agency scouts and the messenger to Capt McGregory that the Indians would burn the post

The wounded are doing well all will be out soon Mr Jewell was a little better this morning He suffers very much and his many friends are very anxious about him There are many destitute persons in Pendleton gathered there from homes in the country Grain is ripe but it is not safe to cut it fences are thrown down and much grain destroyed Horses are driven off in large bands and cattle and sheep are shot down in large numbers all by these Indians, Great destitution ... has authorized the organization of a company at Pendleton for the protection of life and property Should the Indians return this way Gen Howard has made ample provision to meet them

Indians in the Blue Mountains.

Umatilla, July 12th

The hostile Indians were at Cayuse stage station last night They fired on the stage crossing over the mountains yesterday afternoon this side of Meacham's and this morning about 4 o'clock a large body of hostiles crossed over the Meacham road between Cayuse and Emigrant Springs

All freighting over the Blue mountains is now and has been stopped for several weeks and the stage cannot cross with safety until the Indians are known to have passed east of the old Tuckle or Warm Springs road It is reported that Cayuse station was burned last night

Report from Howard

San Francisco July 12—The following is just received at headquarters

Wallula July 12

The hostiles after Monday's battle turned north and eastward along the Blue ridge and crossed the Meacham road in the night Sanford's three companies of cavalry and Miles infantry are to follow Egbert operates from Baker City guarding against a return by trails between him and the Pictus to the lakes Bernard is now at Forsyth's and moves with six companies of cavalry northward toward Lewiston I am en route to Lapwai Mount Idaho and vicinity with an infantry force to head the enemy at the Snake crossing Throckmorton is near Pendleton and will be strengthened by Miscue's companies to quiet the excited people Attempts to cross the Columbia by the hostiles have ceased

NOTES GATHERED AT THE DALLES

EXCITEMENT — INCIDENTS AND INTERVIEWS — THE GENERAL PANIC EAST OF THE MOUNTAINS

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT OF THE OREGONIAN

Celilo July 10 1878—10 P M

The Dalles was somewhat startled to day by the arrival of a number of people from Klickitat and other points north of the river who brought with them some of their household effects and live stock reporting that the hostiles were on that side of the river and had in one instance made some demonstration around Bob Nixon's ranch near Long Island where the gunboats killed five Indians day before yesterday but as far as I can learn these Indians offered no violence to any one Ben Snipes whose herders had about 300 head of horses in that vicinity became frightened and drove the stock away toward The Dalles in hot haste Just why their fright is a problem except the general panic that prevails in this country as they say that although about 50 of these Indians camped only 100 yards from them no attempt was made to trouble the herders nor did the Indians seem disposed to hold any correspondence with them

Considerable inquiry among citizens of the Dalles to day elicited no information of the lately reported atrocities at Oak Grove and we are constrained to the belief that the parties who carried that news to the valley were also panic stricken for it is evident upon slight inquiry and casual observation that there is among the people east of the mountains almost everywhere a wide-spread feeling of distrust and suspicion which amounts in many neighborhoods and sections almost to a panic and the absence of means of procuring quick and frequent communication is a cause of increased uneasiness when no immediate danger exists Almost every report grows as it travels and a forcible illustration was furnished us this afternoon On reaching the Dalles it was told us that the hostiles had fired into the steamer Spokane which was patrolling the river between this point and Umatilla and from the stories we expected to find her badly riddled with bullet holes but when we got to Celilo the Spokane was here and on examination it was found that two bullets probably struck The men on board returned the shots and killed two Indians, who were afterwards found to belong to the Columbia river Indians a friendly tribe living along that stream The three killed by the men on the Northwest Capt Wilkinson's gunboat may have been of the same tribe The Indians through this section who are still regarded as friendly are as we are informed, imbued with the panicky spirit as much as the whites, and if there is any shooting going on and they are able to hold their own at it they return the fire, or if not they run away, and it seems that it has been adopted as a rule up here that if Indians are seen driving stock in a hurry they must belong to the hostiles, and if any one fires on them in most cases they hurry all the more I leave the reader to say whether the rule is a good one, we are not a judge of military necessity If it be a military necessity to kill off the friendly Indians, if there be any all right, we have no good injuns of our own except those whose "faithful dogs" are bearing them company in happy hunting grounds

We have gathered some items from parties residing in Eastern Oregon and the Walla Walla country as to the extent to which depredations have been committed and also the damage likely to result from desertion of their homes by farmers ranchers and others but I must verify them before detailing them to your readers.

A False Claim Explodes

(From the New York Tribune)

Congressman Foster of Ohio, has done good service in exposing so thoroughly the Democratic claims of successful and permanent retrenchment in the expenses of the government He demonstrates the falsity of Speaker Randall's claim of a saving of $30 000 000 on appropriations of which such effective use was made in 1876 and proves the truth of the Republican predictions made at that time that this would be found to be a temporary reduction effected not by actual economy but by withholding for a time from certain departments appropriations which it would be necessary eventually to grant The appropriations made by the present congress are $12 000 000 in excess of those made for the two preceding years without taking into consideration the deficiency bills Including those the excess over 1876 will be $25 000,000 The whole reduction which Mr. Randall claimed to have effected was between $29 000 000 and $30 000 000 An excellent contrast with these figures is shown in the reduction in the last year of a Republican house, of $16 000 000 on the year before and in the last two years, of $28 000 000 Also in the fact that the deficiency bills which these Democratic economists have made necessary amount to a good deal more than all the deficiencies during the four years that General Garfield was chairman of the committee on appropriations

SATURDAY MORNING JULY 13 1878

THE COLUMBIA PORTAGES

Several propositions are being discussed relative to the construction of competing portage railroads at the Cascades and Dalles. Much talk has been had about them in connection with extension of the Northern Pacific grant, but those who professed to be loudest in their demand for the portage roads insisted on putting the Northern Pacific grant in a form which made it worthless alike for the portage roads and every other part of the undertaking. Finally after months of controversy and delay congress adjourned leaving the situation unchanged. We get neither the portage roads nor anything else. Another proposition is now being somewhat discussed. It has been suggested that the state take hold of it, build the roads and operate them. Desirable as the result would be there are many good reasons why the state should not attempt it. First there is the constitutional inhibition. It can hardly be supposed that the state could accomplish this work without creating a liability beyond that permitted by the constitution. Second if internal improvements be undertaken for one part of the state other parts will have equal claims and there will be no end to these enterprises all of which, of course, will be of highest necessity to the public welfare. Third, Washington territory is interested jointly with Oregon in the navigation of the Columbia river and use of the portages. So likewise is a large portion of Idaho. Even if there were no constitutional or other objections, would it be a prudent and proper thing for the people of Oregon to tax themselves to construct a highway as much for others' use as for their own? True, it may be said that the state would have the income from tolls and thus would realize a handsome return upon its investment. But when did a thing of this kind undertaken by a state, become a source of revenue? In what instance has it ever been anything but a continual expense? Invariably it becomes the prey of politicians. In management of works of this nature there is a political pool always, the business is not conducted on business principles, but for the benefit of party managers, and jobs in office and in legislation are its natural fruits. We do not think the legislature will give favorable attention to any proposition to build these or other roads at the expense of the state. It is an undertaking which offers an investment for private capital, and if private capital declines to enter it, the conclusion is that it cannot be safely undertaken at the public expense.

But there is still another proposition. Statements are published to the effect that if the people east of the mountains will raise a certain sum, say $150,000, other parties are ready to furnish what balance may be necessary to build portage roads at once. The sum to be raised by the people would not be asked as a contribution but as a subscription to the stock, and guarantees would be furnished that the roads never should be sold or otherwise disposed of, without their consent. What it would cost to construct the portage roads we do not know. No estimate has yet been published. The proposition, as we are informed, contemplates the building of narrow gauge roads, the outlay for which would not be above half that for the standard gauge. This, no doubt, would be a practicable plan. It is beyond question that the people of the upper Columbia country might raise the money if they should see fit to do so. For a large community whose wealth is rapidly increasing it is not a great sum. It is supposed that if the roads were built, steamboat men would furnish boats enough at once. Every new enterprise adds to the development of the country, and this proposition offers the most feasible plan yet suggested for another line on the Columbia. Whether it would pay under the heavy competition that would ensue, would be a question for consideration of those who were embarking their money in it.

A PRACTICAL SYSTEM OF POLITICAL REWARD.

A remarkably caustic article on the system of rewards as practiced by the administration and the consequences as developed in the conduct of the Andersons and McLins and Dennises who have been furnishing the material for the Potter investigation is given by the New York Times. The inferior agents of the election business in Louisiana and Florida saw that the so called 'visiting statesmen' all got fat places, and they believed themselves fully entitled to be taken care of also. Says the Times: "Mr Hayes was bound to give the country the best officers whom he could select. The offices were not his to distribute among his personal political friends, for personal political services any more than they were his to distribute for family reasons among his own and his wife's relatives. But the idea seems early to have taken root that the men who were most active in securing a fair count in Louisiana and Florida were to have the pick of offices. At that time there happened to be a vacancy in the supreme court, and Gen Harlan very early suggested to Mr H V Boynton that that place was what he should expect for his services on the Louisiana commission. And the 'visiting statesmen' were nearly all afterward appointed to high places. To-day they are found in the cabinet, on the supreme bench, filling first-class foreign appointments or fat places at home. Is it any wonder that Jenks Anderson, McLin and the rest refuse to be put off with a Funchal consulship, a place in the secret service, or a treasury clerkship?"

This goes to the very marrow of the matter. A purpose to reward special labors by official preferment was unquestionably the rule in. [illegible] is right in the intimation which closes its article to the effect that since these two classes of patriots have not both been denied official favors it would have been more equitable had both been rewarded according to their station.

The International Review for July-August is one of more than ordinary interest to the general public. It contains twelve articles of uniform timeliness: three political articles (Russia, by Karl Blind of England, the Chinese Puzzle and [illegible] Mission); two politico-economical articles (The Elements of National Wealth and Industrial Reconstruction); two theological articles (Science and Theology, by James A. Froude, and the Moral Problem by Mark Hopkins); two papers on subjects connected with the arts (The French Exhibition agriculturally considered and Photograph Art in Europe by Philip G. Hamerton); two literary contributions (The Centenary of Rousseau, by Rev S. Osgood, D D, and the Department of Contemporary Literature); and one article on Army Reorganization, by General James H Wilson. Each has been prepared with reference to a current demand for information [illegible]

[illegible] leading topics of the time and is original in this review.

Sales of land along the Northern Pacific railroad in Dakota continue at an enormous rate. During sixty days the government lands taken amounted to [illegible] 34 acres while sales of railroad lands during the same period reached a total of 10[illegible] 997 acres making a total of 581,931 acres, which if taken in one solid body would cover a tract of land six miles [illegible] miles wide and one hundred and fifty miles long. This rapid absorption of lands is far in excess of anything in the past.

About the most marvellous of all the rumors in regard to the Indians was that which the Dayton W T Chronicle had by telegraph. The reporter of vivid imagination sent this: Indians are fighting between Cayuse and Umatilla and they are licking [illegible] out of the soldiers and settlers and say they will take Pendleton by daylight this morning. Courier says you can stand in Weston and hear the cannon roar. Probably explosion of beer kegs.

There are 2,600 vacant dwellings in San Francisco. This is a good sign. It indicates that the great super-abundant population which has been crowding into the city for two or three years past without hope of employment is thinning out somewhat. The city contains one third of the population of California, which is too large a proportion.

All the papers of Eastern Oregon and Washington are crying with one voice "Exterminate the hostile Indians." It is mighty well, but the old recipe for cooking a hare begins very wisely with Imprimis, catch your hare.

A paper at Seattle murders Tennyson by quoting him thus: "Fifty years in Attica is worth a whole cycle of Cathay."

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

To the Citizens of Portland The executive committee consisting of the undersigned appointed at a meeting held by the citizens of the city of Portland on Sunday, the 7th of July in consequence of certain telegrams received from Umatilla and for the purpose of devising ways and means to render assistance to the people of Eastern Oregon against the savages beg leave to report as follows

[illegible] meeting on the afternoon of the 7th inst the committee telegraphed [illegible] Gov S F Chadwick [illegible] that the citizens of Portland had held a large and enthusiastic meeting had appointed an executive committee [illegible] ample and sufficient sums of money and were ready to equip with everything necessary [illegible] arms and ammunition [illegible] which at the said meeting had declared themselves ready to [illegible] action, and such other volunteer organizations as he [illegible] governor might deem necessary or advisable to call into the service of the state of Oregon [illegible] he would accept the three militia [illegible] meeting held the same evening July 8th and shortly after he reconsidered his decision and his in response to our numerous telegrams asking him to [illegible] arm and pay volunteers as state troops while in the field provided the citizens of Portland would at their own expense furnish them with blankets camp equipments food and transportation to the front uniformly replied that [illegible] plenty of men in Eastern Oregon [illegible] only procure the necessary guns and ammunition to arm them

Under these circumstances the committee has mainly endeavored to facilitate the procurement of such arms and ammunition They caused by request of the governor the [illegible] guns for nearly in the hands of the city militia companies in this city to be packed and forwarded to Umatilla together with 6000 rounds of ammunition furnished by the military authorities at Fort Vancouver They have telegraphed to the honorable the secretary of war communicating to him the terrible state of affairs and urging upon him the necessity of at once providing the [illegible] guns and ammunition for the arming of our volunteers and the citizens of Eastern Oregon and the committee have been gratified to learn that in consequence of their actions Gov Chadwick has succeeded or is about to succeed in getting several hundred stand of arms from the U S arsenal at Vancouver through the governor of Washington which territory has, as appears from a telegram from the war department to this committee, a credit of 2000 guns due it while our own state has already overdrawn its quota by [illegible]00

At the meeting above mentioned July 7th, the sum of $2[illegible] was subscribed in a few moments —certainly a large amount when it is considered that it was done without solicitation and notwithstanding it was Sunday and the places of business were not open Had the governor deemed it expedient or necessary to accept our offer of men this sum would have been easily augmented to $10 000 or more The committee is informed by Hon D P Thompson chairman of the finance committee that $200 50 about 10 per cent of the above, has been collected to defray the expenses incurred by this committee for rent of hall, telegraphing stationery etc, that $136 36 of the amount so collected has been disbursed, and that the balance of $64 14 is now in his, the said chairman's hands, as per his report herewith

The officers and members of the several volunteer and militia organizations in this city are entitled to the thanks of this committee and the community at large for the promptness with which they offered their services and responded to the call of duty and humanity The committee is satisfied that had his excellency the governor needed their services they would have given a good account of themselves and convinced our fellow citizens of Eastern Oregon that the citizens of Portland are ever ready and anxious to give them all the aid and assistance in their power.

THE GAME OF CRICKET

[illegible] has given rise to a good deal of discussion concerning this noble and manly old game a few remarks to the [illegible] may not be out of place

A great many people in Oregon seem to look upon cricket as a purely English game [illegible] the game is [illegible] in England and may be called a national pastime in that country But for very many years it has had its admirers in the United States and the Canadas Of the celebrated clubs in the [illegible] states the Young America [illegible] Philadelphia ranks first the St George of New York may be said to stand second and the Boston club third, after which come [illegible] Salem Mass of unenviable witchcraft notoriety has a club which had the honor of giv[illegible] [illegible] To those who do not understand the game it [illegible] seems tame when compared with base ball and we hear [illegible] it [illegible] in a manner far from complimentary [illegible] We can assure base ball players and all others who are fond of manly sports that [illegible] will only practice the game and become familiar with the scientific points [illegible] the longer they play [illegible] has this advantage over base ball and that is men can enjoy the exercise until they are far advanced in years as was [illegible] by the silvered hair of several of our late visitors

In conclusion we may say that with [illegible] the game of cricket has taken a firm and lasting hold on our staunch [illegible] of Oregon and that [illegible] so that a friendly emulation may keep alive the interest in a pastime so conducive to health and longevity Our people live at much too fast a pace in the race for [illegible] and if they will only give a little time [illegible] to these muscle developing [illegible] sports they will find both their mental and physical growth improved It is to be hoped that our merchants and business men will look at this matter favorably and allow those in their employ a chance to recuperate their energies now and again by a little wholesome and harmless [illegible]

SATURDAY MORNING JULY 13 1878

DECISION IN THE U S CIRCUIT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY

U S Circuit Court—District of Oregon

MONDAY July 8 1878

In the matter of the application of William Spenser to be admitted to citizenship

(1 ALIENS An alien to be entitled to admission to citizenship must first prove that he has behaved as a man of good moral character during all the period of his residence in the United States

(2 MORAL CHARACTER What constitutes good moral character may vary in some respects in different times and places but a person who commits perjury does not behave as a man of good moral character and is not therefore entitled to admission to citizenship

(3 PARDON A pardon is prospective and not retrospective in its operation and while it absolves the offender from the guilt of his offence and relieves him from the legal disabilities consequent thereon it does not obliterate or wipe out the fact of the commission of the crime so that it cannot be made to appear on an application to be admitted to citizenship

DEADY J

William Spenser an alien applies to be admitted to become a citizen of the United States under § 2,165 of the R S From the evidence it satisfactorily appears that he duly declared his intentions and has continuously resided in the United States—the State of Oregon—at least since 1870 He is therefore entitled to be admitted to citizenship if it appears that during such residence he has behaved as a man of good moral character attached to the principles of the constitution of the United States and well disposed towards the good order and happiness of the same § 2 165 supra Sub 3

The proof shows that the applicant has resided in Oregon near The Dalles for more than eight years that in 1876 and after he had declared his intentions he was duly convicted in the circuit court of the state for Wasco county of the crime of perjury committed by swearing falsely as a witness in a case in said court, in which he was a party and sentenced to five years imprisonment in the penitentiary, that after being in prison fifteen months and eight days he was unqualifiedly pardoned by the governor, upon as the pardon recites, the petition of sundry citizens of Wasco county and because it appeared that there were doubts as to his guilt and unless he was released from prison there was danger that he would lose his homestead

Upon this state of facts two questions arise (1) Has the applicant behaved as a man of good moral character'' within the meaning of the statute, and, (2) What is the effect of the pardon in this respect

In the first place, during what time is the behavior of the applicant open to consideration? The statute—supra—declares that It shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court admitting such alien that he has resided within the United States five years at least * * * and that during that time he has behaved as a man of good moral character'' etc Is an alien who has behaved as a man of good moral character during the five years immediately preceding his application but who had not so behaved during his residence in the United States prior thereto entitled to admission? I think not The behavior of the applicant during all the time of his residence within the United States is material The good of the country does not require and it does not appear to be the policy of the law to promote the naturalization of aliens who have at any time during their residence in the United States behaved otherwise than as persons of good moral character The citizenship of the country is sufficiently alloyed and debased by the presence of immoral natives without the addition of those born in foreign countries

The applicant must not simply have sustained a good reputation but his conduct must have been such as comports with a good character In other words, he must have behaved—conducted himself—as a man of good moral character ordinarily would, should or does Character consists of the qualities which constitute the individual, reputation the sum of opinions entertained concerning him The former is interior, the latter external. The one is the substance, the other the shadow (N. Y P Code, 120, 8 Barb 608)

What is a good moral character'' within the meaning of the statute may not be easy of determination in all cases The standard may vary from one generation to another and probably the average man of the country is as high as it can be set. In one age and country duelling drinking and gaming are considered immoral, and in another they are regarded as very venial sins at most The only authorities I have been able to find upon this subject are the cases of Ex-parte Douglas and Ex parte Sandberg cited in 2 Bright, Fed Dig 28, from 5 West Jur 171 These cases hold that an alien who lives in a state of polygamy, or believes that polygamy may be rightfully practiced in defiance of the laws to the contrary, is not entitled to citizenship

Upon general principles it would seem that whatever is forbidden by the law of the land ought to be considered, for the time being immoral, within the purview of this statute And it may be said with good reason that a person who violates the law thereby manifests in a greater or less degree that he is not "well disposed to the good order and happiness" of the country. Good behavior—that behavior for which a person reasonably suspected of an intention to misbehave may be required to give surety, is defined to be conduct authorized by law and bad behavior such as the law punishes (Bou. Dic. verba, Behavior 2 Black. 251, 256)

But perjury is not only malum prohibitum but malum in se At both the civil and common law it was classed among the crimen falsi and wherever, as in this case, it affected the administration of justice by introducing falsehood and fraud therein, it was, at common law, deemed infamous, and the person committing it held incompetent as a witness and unworthy of credit. (4 Saw 213)

There can be no question, then, but that a person who commits perjury has so far behaved as a man of bad moral character But it may be said that an alien who has otherwise behaved as a man of good moral character during a residence in the country of at least five years ought not to be denied admission to citizenship on account of the commission in that time of a single illegal or immoral act This suggestion is based upon the idea that it is sufficient if the behavior of the applicant was generally good—that the good preponderated over the evil In some sense this may be correct. For instance the law of the state prohibits gaming and the unlicensed sale of spirituous liquors These acts thereby become immoral. But their criminality consists in their being prohibited and not because they are deemed to be intrinsically wrong—mala in se Now, if an applicant for naturalization, whose behavior, during a period of five or more years was otherwise good was shown to have committed during that time either of those or similar crimes I am not prepared to say that his application ought to be denied on account of his behavior And yet it is clear that anything like habitual gaming or vending of liquors under such circumstances would constitute bad behavior—immoral behavior—and be a bar under the statute to admission to citizenship But in the case of murder robbery theft bribery or perjury it seems to me that a single instance of the commission of either of them is enough to prevent the admission The burden of proof is upon the applicant to prove "to the satisfaction of the court that during the period of his probation he has conducted himself as a moral man But when the proof shows that he has committed an infamous crime, it is not possible in my judgment to find that his behavior has been such as to entitle him under the statute to receive the privilege and power of American citizenship

What effect if any does the pardon have upon the application? By the constitution of this state (Article V § 14) the governor has power to grant pardons after conviction for all offences except treason subject to such regulations as may be prescribed by law' The criminal code makes no restrictions upon the power of the governor except that he must first require the judge or district attorney who tried the case to give him a statement of the facts (Or C C c 53) This pardon does not show that this statement was asked for or obtained nor does it appear therefrom what gave rise to the alleged doubts as to the defendant's guilt But this suggestion cannot affect the truth or effect of the judgment which established his guilt So far then as this application is concerned the matter stands thus the applicant was duly convicted of perjury and the governor in the exercise of that mercy which belongs to him in his official character has pardoned him for reasons of his own, that are immaterial to this inquiry

fore it cannot now be relied upon to prove that he has not behaved as a man of good moral character during his residence in the United States In ex parte Garland 4 Wall 380, Mr Justice Field speaking for a majority of the court says A pardon reaches both the punishment prescribed for the offence and the guilt of the offender and when the pardon is full it releases the punishment and blots out of existence the guilt so that in the eyes of the law the offender is as innocent as if he had never committed the offence This is probably as strong and unqualified a statement of the scope and efficacy of a pardon as can be found in the books And yet I do not suppose the opinion is to be understood as going the length of holding that while the party is to be deemed innocent of the crime by reason of the pardon from and after the taking effect thereof that it is also to be deemed that he never did commit the crime or was convicted of it The effect of the pardon is prospective and not retrospective It removes the guilt and restores the party to a state of innocence but it does not change the past and cannot annihilate the established fact that he was guilty of the offence And such I think is the doctrine of the authorities cited in support of this opinion namely 4 Black 402 Bac Ab Pardon H Blackstone's language is the effect of such a pardon by the king is to make the offender a new man to acquit him of all corporal penalties and forfeitures annexed to that offence for which he obtained his pardon and not so much to restore his former as to give him a new credit and capacity And the author goes on to state that a pardon does not purify the blood during the period it was corrupted by conviction and gives the following illustration Yet if a person attainted receives the king's pardon and afterwards hath a son that son may be heir to his father because the father being made a new man might transmit new inheritable blood, though had he been born before the pardon he could never have inherited at all Bacon says a pardon makes the party as it were a new man It removes the punishment and legal disabilities consequent on the crime' It restores his competency to be a witness but yet his credit must be left to the jury From these authorities it is plain that a pardon does not operate retrospectively The offender is purged of his guilt and thenceforth he is an innocent man, but the past is not obliterated nor the fact that he had committed the crime wiped out

Apply these principles to this case By the commission of the crime the applicant was guilty of misbehavior within the meaning of the statute during his residence in the United States The pardon has absolved him from the guilt of the act and relieved him from the legal disabilities consequent thereupon But it has not done away with the fact of his conviction It does not operate retrospectively The answer to the question—Has he behaved as a man of good moral character?' must still be in the negative for the fact remains notwithstanding the pardon that the applicant was guilty of the crime of perjury—did behave otherwise than as a man of good moral character

The fact that the applicant cannot obtain title to his homestead unless he is admitted to citizenship cannot effect the consideration of the question Doubtless in this respect the matter operates as a hardship upon him But this only illustrates the truth of the Proverb—the way of transgressors is hard—and in the long run it is better for the world that it should be so

The proof is not satisfactory that the applicant has behaved as a man of good moral character during his residence in the United States, but the contrary, and therefore the application is denied But the applicant having no counsel and the matter having been submitted without argument, and being now res judicata if he shall be hereafter advised that there is probable error in this ruling, he may apply within a reasonable time to set aside the judgment denying his application and for a rehearing thereof

BEAUTY:

OR, THE

Secret of a Fair Face.

An Item of Interest to Every Lady who Desires to be More Beautiful than she now is.

Unfortunately not one woman in a hundred, subjected to the whims of an American climate, possesses that basis and starting point of real beauty—a pure and clear complexion What nature has thus denied, art must be called upon to furnish. It can be done It is done daily Prof W E. Hagan placed beauty within the reach of every unblessed daughter of Eve when he discovered that surprising article known in fashionable circles as the true secret of beauty, and called

MAGNOLIA BALM

The MAGNOLIA BALM is a sure device for creating a pure and blooming complexion. It conceals all natural blemishes in the most surprising and effective manner It removes all roughness eruptions, redness, blotches, freckles, and tan with magical power It drives away all evidence of fatigue and excitement. It makes the plainest face beautiful It gives the complexion a dazzling purity and makes the neck, face, and arms appear graceful, rotund and plump. It makes a matron of 25 or 40 look not more than 20 years old and changes the rustic maiden into a cultivated city belle

The Magnolia Balm removes all blemishes and conceals every drawback to beauty, and, while it is as harmless as water, it is so life-like in its effects that the closest observer cannot detect its use. Ladies who want to make themselves attractive can make an absolute certainty of it by using HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM and we know of no other way. It is the cheapest preparation in the world, all things considered, and may be had at any drug store.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Difficult Diseases,

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS

public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease in plain and comprehensive language But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease mentally and physically he has restored them to health and happiness for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases Catarrh Bronchitis and all diseases of the throat and chest by an entirely new system only known to himself Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs including Spermatorrhea Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States Diseases of the stomach bowels liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES

to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE

over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual This accounts in part for his great professional success

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand and the patient need not fear the result.

will send to those living at a distance and who can not well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally and will forward the proper medicines or instruments to any part of the country with full instructions and advice Each letter requiring advice or list of questions must contain two postage stamps

Everything strictly confidential and honorable

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this state can testify

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland requiring medical treatment of the proper kind who desire to consult with me will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so called Doctors through pretended friendship for the patients Look out for them they are knaves prompted by selfish motives and what they can make.
